GOVERNOR BOARD AND THE BENNETT LAW.

A representative of the Evening Wisconsin has called on Governor Hoard, for the purpose of taking an inventory of his stock of moral courage in relation to the Bennett law. It didn't take long to complete the inventory. When the reporter left the executive chamber he was constrained to write these words: "Governor Hoard will stand or fall with the Bennett law." More particularly the Governor said: "If it is necessary for me to go down sustaining the principles underlying the Bennett law, I will gladly go down. If there is any portion of the law that works a hardship on any individual it should be amended. Or, if the efficacy of the law can be increased by an amendment, then I should say, make the amendment. But there are two principles of the law that must not be lost sight of for a moment—the right of the state to see to it that every child shall receive the rudiments of an education, and the right of every child to receive such an education. These are fundamental American principles, and I shall do all in my power to support them and see that they are carried out."

These are the words of a man who has the courage of his convictions—the firm purpose of a man who is not afraid to publicly express his opinion on a great question, about which there is so much difference of opinion in this state, and from which so many are fleeing in fear of being caught with a conviction on their hands. A professional politician would trim on the Bennett law. He would be a good deal like Douglas on the slavery question in Kansas, he wouldn't care whether it was voted up or voted down, but would prefer that that result might come which would best advance his own interests. Governor Hoard is not a man of that kind. He is no politician. Professional politicians never talk of sinking or swimming, surviving or perishing with a principle. The principle must sink or swim, survive or perish, as best fits the success of the politician. Men of all parties who admire firmness in a great purpose, no matter what their opinions may be of the Bennett law, will have an exalted respect for Governor Hoard.

Some of the features of the Bennett law may be unconstitutional, and a modification of them will be necessary; but the chief principles of the law are as righteous as the gospel of everlasting truth, because they seek to do for the children of foreign parents the very best thing that can be done for them—to make them intelligent, useful citizens. It is not at all strange that some bishops and priests, foreign born, unaccustomed to American citizenship, should have a warmer side for the German or the Polish language than for the English, because they speak the language of this country but imperfectly, and want the children to be trained as the have been—without an English education. Then there are some German newspapers which oppose the Bennett law because in time it will interfere with their subscription lists. They oppose it on selfish, or to put it more mildly, on business grounds. The more German children read English and adopt American manners, and in spirit and aims become Americans, the less use they have for German newspapers. It is a great pity that both political parties cannot stand shoulder to shoulder on this law which was enacted for the common good. It should not be made a political question any more than good morals should be, for the law simply aims to arm a certain class of children with that independence and power which shall enable them to make the best possible use of this life.

Edward Everett Hale, in the course of a sermon which he preached in New York last Sunday, testified that the humblest manual laborer, equally with his brother-man whose career abounds with the highest achievements of the intellect, has a right to and ought to regard himself as "a fellow-worker with God." This is beautiful in theory, but to make a common day laborer feel that he is on a par with successful men of intellect and flesh purses, is difficult to do. The church of to-day, judging from its practical workings, has no use for the "humblest manual laborer" as a fellow worker with those who have won the highest achievements of the intellect. There is so much difference between them that they cannot work in the same harness for the reason that the church, as a rule, finds no use for them. How many humble manual laborers has Dr. Hale in his Bible class? How many does he try to put in the front rank of the church workers? How many of them does he or his family visit? How many of them are taken by the hand and led into the confidence and esteem of the ruling men of the church? These questions are naturally brought out by the remarks of Dr. Hale because he knows that it is utterly impossible, with very rarely an exception, for the humblest manual laborer to regard himself as "a fellow worker with God," (equal to the highest intelligence in a church. Such preaching does more harm than good because it is not sincere; and the fact is not so much with the humble laborer as with somewhere else.

Mr. Edward Atkinson, the economist, declares that the annual production of eggs in this country equals in money value the country's annual total production of iron. The total value of the iron product of the country for 1887 was $171,103,000, and the statement that the egg product of the United States is equal in value to that of iron, seems almost incredible, and yet the statistics, very carefully collected, give the stamp of reliability to the declaration of Mr. Atkinson. In addition to the great production of eggs in this country there were over sixteen million dozen imported in 1888.

The following is a good one from the Evening Wisconsin: "One of the most memorable caricatures ever printed in the London Punch represented Lord John Russell as a little boy who had chalked the words 'No Popery!' on the door of Cardinal Manning and was running away in terror. The attitude of County Clerk Frank Sebastian, who was responsible for the preparation of the original draft of the Bennett law, is now trying to slink under cover, is strongly suggestive of Punch caricature."

How slowly some pieces of news travel! A large number of democratic newspapers evidently have not heard of the disgraceful Ohio gerrymander.—N. Y. Tribune.

Yes, and they never will hear that kind of news. The democratic members of congress do not seem to have heard from the country on the free trade question, although the returns have been in nearly a year and a half. And Cleveland, who professes to have an unusually sensitive ear, seems not to have heard from his own state.

The government printing office is now engaged in filling one of the largest orders in its history. This is for 18,000,000 blanks for the use of the 40,000 enumerators of the eleventh census, who will begin work in May. It will take 15,000 reams of paper, and twenty presses will have to be worked twenty-two hours each day for six weeks before the order will have been completed.

Senator Hoar is credited with a frank and earnest view of a recently discussed subject. He says congressional discussions are not reported at greater length because they are for the most part tiresome and uninteresting. One of the reforms greatly needed that of congressional discussions. The public is not benefited by them, and besides that they are very costly.

It has been suggested that Senator Stanford, before he introduced his bill authorizing the government to loan money on real estate, should have studied American history. It is difficult to understand what such senators as Stanford want with American history. History would confound them.

They are having a good deal of French in the white house now, as Mrs. Harrison is reading and trying to speak that language. It has been supposed that what the white house most needed was a thorough system of sewerage, but French may be better than that.

The venerable Master. Two ladies were standing on the corner of Rush and Kenney streets last evening about 9 o'clock waiting for a car, says the San Francisco Examiner. Both were young and pretty. An elderly man whose mustache was white but curled up at the ends by the barber, whose title and clothing did credit to his hatter and tailor edged up to the ladies and stared at them. He shifted around, and beside staring made his best effort at a fascinating smile. Then he coughed gently, wiped his lips with a dainty silk handkerchief and smiled again. At last he lifted his hat and bowed. "Louise," said one of the young ladies to the other, calmly, "give the poor old man a nickel. He is evidently too timid to ask for it. Just then the car came along, and when it had driven far, far away, and was disappearing from sight, the venerable master was still leaning on the lamp post against which he tottered.

Imitation Gold. A well-known scientific gentleman has been experimenting on a metal resembling gold for nearly a year, and has now got it down almost to perfection. He stumbled on it first accidentally while analyzing some metals, and when he realized what he had found he went to work and soon produced a metal which puzzles the best of jewelers, as he says as gold, and for the moment is the precious metal itself. When the gold test is applied to it the acid boils up a little, but gives no other evidence that the metal is other than gold, and when wiped off no mark or spot is left, as is the case when the test is applied to brass. It can be manufactured at a comparatively small cost.

An Old Man's Insane Love. The Atlanta Constitution reports a curious case from Watanga county, Ga. An old bachelor of seventy-two winters by the name of Neil, wanted to marry Miss Myra McCulloch, a pretty young girl seventeen years old. Neil tested the girl better than his own life, and when he proposed to her she refused to marry him. He begged and pleaded with her, and finally she told him she never intended to speak to him again. Neil immediately went away, and securing an ax, he laid his right hand across a log and with one stroke cut it off at the wrist, saying it would be a mark of affliction upon him for learning to love a young girl who never meant to have him. He has never married him.

LYNCHERS ALL GUILTY.

A Verdict of Murder in the First Degree Against the White-hall Lynchers.

DISCOVERY OF A HORRIBLE CRIME IN IOWA.

Farmer Nurre and His Wife Slain in Their Own Home—Various Other Crimes.

CLINTON, Iowa, March 14.—Hundreds of thoroughly aroused farmers living in the neighborhood of Brown's Station, twenty miles north of here, are scouring the country searching for the perpetrators of a horrible double butchery which has just come to light. The victims are Henry Nurre, a wealthy farmer, and his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Nurre lived in a farm house a mile and a half away from Brown's Station.

The house is situated in the middle of a dense grove and is comparatively isolated from other habitations, affording a good opportunity for the perpetration of the horrible crime. The Nurrees lived a rather secluded life, and the murder might not have been discovered for some days were it not for the fact that both Nurre and his wife are devout Catholics and had regular attendants at the daily lent services which were held in the church near by. Not appearing on Tuesday or Wednesday a search was instituted and yesterday a son-in-law was the first to arrive at the house in company with some friends.

On opening the back door to the kitchen they found the body of old man Nurre lying on the floor, his throat cut from ear to ear, and his head beaten to a jelly. On the floor were pools of blood, and the furniture was scattered about and spotted with gory evidence of a crime. Upstairs another terrible discovery was made. Lying upon a bed was Mrs. Nurre, with her head also badly battered. The skull was so badly smashed that the brain was exposed and the bedclothes were covered with blood. Strange to say, Mrs. Nurre was still alive, but she was in a comatose condition, and it is impossible for her to recover.

The double crime must have been committed some time on Tuesday, the 11th, as on a table in the sitting room lay a letter dated March 11 and an envelope addressed to a son-in-law of the old couple. The letter stated that the writer would deposit the sum of $1,100 at the Preston bank on that day in favor of the party addressed.

It is thought that there were three men connected with the murder, the motive for which was undoubtedly robbery, as Mr. Nurre was known to keep large sums of money in the house, he having been heard to say that he had no confidence in banks. The combination of the safe had been clumsily broken off, but the safe was unopened. At the robbers overlooked a satchel containing the 1,100 mentioned in the letter, and only secured a few dollars which the old man had in his pocket.

The only clue to the perpetrators of the crime are two caps and two pairs of mittens which were found lying near Nurre's body. The ultimate capture of the murderers seems doubtful, as they have got a long start. Theodore Hallman, the son-in-law of the deceased, has offered a reward of $1,000 for the apprehension of the guilty parties.

FOUND THEM ALL GUILTY.

Verdict of Murder in the First Degree Against the Lynchers.

WHITEHALL, Wis., March 14.—Ole C. Sletto, Ole J. Hanson, and Bertha M. Olson were found guilty of murder in the first degree for complicity in the lynching of Hans Jacob Olson on Sunday, Nov. 24. Immediately after the verdict had been returned and the excitement had in some measure subsided, the parties arrested and held on the double charge of riot and lynching Olson were arraigned in court on the information filed against them by the district attorney.

Their names are as follows: Charles Johnson, Elbert Olson, Peter Erickson, Gulick Olson, Henry Olson, Thomas Olson, Ole Sletto, Dick Martin, Peter J. Loga, Salve Peterson, John and Thomas McKivergan, Charles Devoine, Marcus Hanson, Jorgen Selberg, Edward Erickson, Ole Sletto, J. Albert Halverson, Terence A. Afterdahl, Ole Bjoelseth, Ludwig Tension, Ole L. Olson, Elias Glaugrauer, Hans Johnson and Charles Hanson.

They all pleaded guilty. Judge Newman immediately passed a sentence upon the rioters, fixing the penalty at $100 and costs of prosecution or six months in the county jail, except in the case of Elbert Olson, who has been already three months in jail, and whose fine was fixed at $30 or three months in jail. The sentence of the murderers were deferred.

BANK WRECKERS ARRESTED.

The President of the State Bank of Irving Kan., Nabbed in Denver.

DENVER, Col., March 14.—M. Haskins, ex-Sheriff of Marshall county, Kansas, has arrived in Denver with requisition papers for the arrest of Ira M. Hodges, formerly president of the State bank at Irving, Kan., on the charge of embezzlement.

Hodges, together with the bank's vice president, Emmons, made a neat haul of some $40,000. They operated by buying a quantity of worthless notes at 12 cents on the dollar and charging the bank 65 cents for it. Among other papers thus held is about $12,000 of notes from the notorious "quack" "Diamond Dick," which are admitted to be worthless. Emmons was arrested in Kansas City yesterday.

ACCUSED OF CHILD POISONING.

Method Alleged to Have Been Adopted to Secure a Small Sum of Money.

CALUMET, Mich., March 14.—Napoleon Trudeau is under arrest here charged with the murder of his step-child, three years of age. The child was illegitimate, and its father had deposited $300 with him, to be given to the child when it was born. Trudeau tried to get possession of the money and, failing in that, it is said he habitually ill-treated his wife and the child.

Last Sunday Mrs. Trudeau went to church, and when she came home the child was in its death struggles in Trudeau's arms. The child said to its mother: "He struck me," and died soon after. Stains of Paris green were found on its pillow.

Luckey and His Wife Held. PEORIA, Ill., March 14.—An attempt was made to have Bill Luckey and his wife, suspected of murdering Bernard Junghaus, released on a writ of habeas corpus. They appeared in court and set up the plea that they were held without a warrant. The police showed a warrant for their arrest for larceny, they having in their possession the murdered man's jewelry, and the two were taken back to jail.

COMMITTED MANY FORGERIES.

Plainfield (N. J.) Merchants Swindled by a Well-Known Farmer.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., March 14.—About two weeks ago John M. Spencer, a wholesale dealer in horses and owner of an extensive farm near Scotch Plains left his home. He told no one where he was going and no word has been received from him since that time.

After he had gone it was discovered that the First National bank of Plainfield and banks at Easton, Newark, and Elizabeth had advanced to him large sums of money on personal notes indorsed with the names of some of the richest men in Plainfield. Notes have been presented to business men whose names they bore for payment and these men have pronounced the indorsements forgeries. The First National bank is not satisfied to meet the loss of some $15,000 or more, and the directors have brought suit against Elias Allen and Aaron Allen for about $8,000 and against William E. Jones for $1,500. Other suits will be instituted, as the alleged forgeries will reach $25,000.

LEACH WAS DROWNED.

The Coroner's Jury Finds no Evidence of Murder on the Body.

CHICAGO, March 14.—A post-mortem examination of the body of the body of Rowland Leach, the New York traveling agent who disappeared from the Palmer house March 2, which was found in the river Wednesday. The physicians found the organs to be in a healthy state and there were no marks of violence. They found, however, all the characteristics of a man who had been drowned.

FLED WITH THE JEWELRY.

A Young Man in Charge of a Store Despoils with $4,000 of Goods.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 14.—Charles Ettinger, an Ontario street jeweler, went to the theater last night and left his store in charge of Louis Goldsoll, his 19-year-old brother-in-law. Ettinger, when he reached his place of business this morning, found that Goldsoll had decamped with $100 in cash and $4,000 worth of diamonds and watches. Goldsoll, Sr., is a wealthy wholesale jeweler. A woman is supposed to be with the young scamp.

May Lynch a Murderous Tramp.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 14.—A tramp named Burris quarreled with the manager of Gray's plantation and shot him dead in the presence of his family. The negroes held the murderer until an officer arrived and lodged him in jail. He will probably be lynched.

HAVOC BY THE FLOODS.

Six Feet of Water in Business Houses at Black Rock, Ark.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 14.—Only meager details of the floods in Arkansas have been received. At Batesville the White river rose thirty-two feet in twenty-four hours and all the lower part of the town is under water. The depot and freight houses of the Iron Mountain railroad are two feet under water. The destruction of property at Black Rock will be heavy. The water stands six feet deep in the hotels and business places.

Orders to remove all cars from the Iron Mountain yards at Newport have been given. No trains have reached there since Tuesday.

A special from Little Rock says the news from the interior towns is all the streams are high and that a large number of bridges have been washed away. No trains have reached there from Fort Smith since Monday and all the road's traffic is badly delayed. The Arkansas river is rising rapidly at Pine Bluff, and there is danger of the government's dikes being destroyed. The situation between that point and the Mississippi river is said to be alarming.

ARRESTED THE EDITOR.

The Cuban Authorities Suppress a Journal Advocating Annexation.

HAVANA, March 14.—The agitation in favor of the annexation of Cuba by the United States has at last reached a crisis. The journals which have been openly and boldly advocating annexation, encouraged apparently by public sentiment and immunity from interference, have received a warning which has checked their utterances. La Tormenta, and other organs of the government's denunciation of the government and advocacy of independence or annexation, capped the climax last week by saying:

"The Spanish government by its disgraceful and ruinous administration of affairs in this island has done more than anything else to throw Cuba into the arms of the United States."

The editor of the paper was arrested two days ago and is still in prison. Other journals are now more cautious, but agitation among the people is stronger than ever.

A DEADLY EXPLOSION.

Two Workmen Killed and Two Injured by an Explosion of Dynamite.

NEW YORK, March 14.—An explosion of dynamite occurred at the Brooklyn Water Works at Rockville Center this morning by which two men were killed and two fatally injured.

The dynamite was being used for blowing up tree-stumps on the line of the extension of the Brooklyn aqueduct, half a mile east of Rockville Center. Two laborers who were walking near were blown to pieces, parts of their bodies were thrown in every direction. Two others were fatally injured. Many houses were shaken, and a number of window-panes were broken by the shock of the explosion.

HE WAS SWEEPED OVERBOARD.

Sir Howard Elphinstone Drowned Near London, March 14.—Intelligence has just reached here that Sir Howard Elphinstone, who has acted as treasurer and comptroller of the estate of the Duke of Connaught, was swept overboard by a heavy sea and drowned March 8 during the passage of the steamer Tongarua from Plymouth to Tenerife.

SENATORS SHERMAN AND BUTLER ENGAGE IN A DEBATE.

They Grow Warm Over the Irrepressible Race Question—Other News from the Capital.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The Senate passed bills for public buildings at Stockton, Cal., $55,000; Mammoth Hot Springs, in the Yellowstone National park, $100,000; Virginia City, $75,000; Hastings, Neb., $75,000; The Dalles, Ore., $100,000; Salem, Ore., $100,000; Stillwater, Minn., $100,000; Reno, Nev., $75,000. All were Senate bills.

The unfinished bill was taken up as the "unfinished business" and Mr. Blair read extracts from the speech of President Harrison when Senator, in 1886, favorable to the bill, and said that he knew the President held the same earnestness to-day as when he expressed them.

Mr. Sherman took part in the discussion, which soon became a heated political controversy. He traced the course of the reconstruction movement and said that at the close of the war it had not been contemplated at that time to arm the negro with suffrage. But the laws passed by some of the southern States had been so unjust to the colored people and so unjust to white Republicans in the South that the people of the North became convinced that the object of the war was to overthrow the results of the war, and to deprive the freedmen of all the rights of citizenship. Up to that time all the legislation had been guided by the one generous feeling that all the results of the war should be blotted out except the one growing out of the abolition of slavery. But when the time had come that it was seen there was no way to protect the freedmen except by arming them with suffrage Congress had reluctantly, slowly, but deliberately, adopted that remedy as the only one fitted for the case.

Mr. Butler suggested that the reconstruction measures and the adoption of the fifteenth amendment were not so much owing to objectionable legislation in some of the Southern States as to the conflict between Andrew Johnson and the Republican Congress.

Mr. Sherman replied that the selection of Andrew Johnson, a Southern man and a Democrat, for the Presidency was proof of the generous treatment which the North had shown to the South. But Mr. Johnson had deserted the Republican party and turned his back upon it when he came into power; and the Congress had tied his hands and prevented him carrying out his policy.

Mr. Sherman said: "Let me say to Senators on the other side, in all seriousness, that there is a feeling in the North that justice has grown out of the fifteenth amendment, and that not only have the negroes of the South been deprived of their votes, but that the people of the South now enjoy larger political power than the same number of the people of the North. I would not care if the whole of the negroes would vote the Democratic ticket. And I now say that beyond and above the fifteenth amendment, or any other pending measure, is an act of Congress that will secure to every man in the United States, who is entitled to vote, his right to cast his vote and have it counted."

Mr. Butler replied to Mr. Sherman. He spoke of the exclusion of colored men in the Northern States from all political offices, and said that if the Northern States would do right to the colored people a good deal of friction would disappear. He had seen within the last month accounts of outrages upon colored people in Ohio and Indiana, and of their being pursued to the death by white mobs; and yet he had not heard one syllable of protest.

He believed that the great body of the people of the North were deeply distressed, and of their being pursued to the death by white mobs; and yet he had not heard one syllable of protest.

The House. WASHINGTON, March 14.—The House went into committee on the whole for consideration of the Oklahoma bill. An amendment was adopted providing that no person having a free-lease to 60 acres of land in any State or Territory shall be entitled to enter land covered by this act. The committee then rose and reported the bill to the House.

The amendment adopted in committee of the whole, providing that section 139, revised statutes, prohibiting the introduction of intoxicating liquors into the Indian Territory, shall be in force in Oklahoma until after the adjournment of the first session of the Legislative assembly, was agreed to—yeas, 134; nays, 103.

The bill was then passed—160 to 25.

It is a substitute for the Senate bill on the same subject. It contains provisions which in substance fix the boundaries of the new Territory so as to include the Cherokee outlet, with a proviso that no lands which the Indians occupy under treaty or law shall be included without their consent, except for judicial purposes. They extend over the new Territory the constitution and laws of the United States and the code of Nebraska without interference with the local Indian governments acting under their treaty rights.

Seven counties are established. The county seats are to be at Guthrie, Oklahoma; Norman, Elston; Kingfisher, Beaver; Stillwater, and one more to be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior. The Cherokee outlet is declared to be public land open to settlement under the homestead laws, and the settlers and occupants are given a preference right. The sections after No. 24 are devoted to the establishment of a judicial system in the Indian Territory, which is to be divided into five districts, and courts are to be held at Muskogee, Vinita, Otoka, Ardmore, and Purcell.

UNDER LIBERTY'S SHADE.

Why Bedloe's Island is a Good Point to Receive Immigrants.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—At the first joint meeting of the Senate and House committees on immigration Secretary William and Solicitor Hepburn, of the Treasury department, were present, and the first named gave a statement of the reasons that had induced him to take charge of the landing of immigrants at New York. It was developed that the Ford committee of the Congress in their report recommended that the national government take charge of this matter. The reports of the manner in which operations at Bedloe's Island were conducted, and the condition of affairs there, the Secretary said, also seemed to warrant, if not demand, a change.

The Secretary was asked why he had selected Bedloe's Island as the landing place for immigrants under the new arrangement. He answered that Governor Norcross's Island would have suited him just as well in fact was examined by him with a view to locating the landing station there; but the military authorities objected to giving up control of the island and he was compelled to look elsewhere. The Treasury Department had a foothold on Bedloe's island, and it was in addition deemed to be the proper place to land immigrants, under the shade of the statue of Liberty. The island contained thirteen acres; five of them are devoted to the park surrounding the statue, and the big dose of morphine with suicidal

LIMA, March 14.—The antagonism existing between the two candidates for the Presidential nomination has resulted in a battle in the streets of Lima between the two parties and many on both sides were killed, among them being Senator Lazana, deputy of Congress and chief of the Rosas party.

Dr. Urbina, having seen five members of his family fall at his side during the eight hours of the combat, left with the remaining members to seek refuge at the Matrise church. There he found a number of women, children, and old people. The priest before the horrible tragedy took place, exhorted the Indians to resist in the name of humanity, from their horrible mode of procedure, but when the Indians are drunk they are most furious and incapable of reasoning.

As they drew near the church, threatening to burn it, Dr. Urbina, under terrible emotion, knowing that he had been the only cause for such action on the part of the Indians, and wishing to save the church, he begged the persons who had taken refuge in the church, resolved without losing time to sacrifice himself and terminate the anarchy of his friends. Leaving the door he added his enemies in the following manner:

"I am Urbina, for whom you are looking. Kill me if you like but the persons in the church are not my accomplices. Do not injure them." The priest, to whom he announced his determination, gave him his benediction and accompanied him to the door of the church, opening a wicket and bidding him go. He added his enemies in the following manner:

"The guerrillas, in their drunken fury, have been satisfied with the murder of Dr. Urbina, continued to slaughter the inhabitants and to sack and burn the town for many hours afterward. Over 100 lives were sacrificed to the old rancor existing between the families of Lazana and Urbina.

HUNTINGTON'S SON-IN-LAW.

Hatfield's Past Life Closes Him to Be Sounded.

BELLEVILLE, March 14.—One or two fully written paragraphs in the social announcements of the newspapers give the information that Prince Hatfield and his Princess (Clara Huntington) may be expected here shortly. There is not the slightest social flutter over the news.

In fact the chances of the Prince and Princess setting any recognition at all in our circles are slim. People here have been hearing some queer stories the last few weeks about the Prince and his heavy losses at the Cercle in Paris. The Prince, however, has received direct from Count Munster a reception given by Minister Whitlaw Reid.

This snub to the Prince was remarked because Count Munster spoke for some minutes with the Princess Hatfield, and observed afterward to a mutual friend that he admired her very much.

PACIFIC RAILROAD DEBT.

Differences of Opinion as to How to Treat the Subject.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The House committee on Pacific railroads again considered the question as to whether it should report a single bill for a settlement of the indebtedness of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railroads (as was done by the Senate committee) or separate bills. There is a marked difference of opinion, and the discussion did not result in an agreement. The published statement that the Secretary of the Treasury has invested money to the credit of the companies in the first mortgage bonds was also discussed and a resolution adopted asking for information on the subject from the department.

BELLEVILLE, March 14.—Interviews with leading socialists revealed that a section of the party is inclined to abandon the anti-monarchical agitation, provided the Emperor adheres to his proposals of social reform. They want the principles set forth in the rescript adhered to, especially in regard to the maximum working day, as the price of their votes.

MANCHESTER, March 14.—Delegates representing 350,000 coal miners have just had a conference here. It was decided not to submit the questions at issue to arbitration. If an agreement cannot be reached on these terms the men will go out on a strike Saturday next.

An Independent Candidate.

To the Electors of the City of Janesville:

During my term of office as street commissioner I have worked faithfully for the interests of the city of Janesville and deemed myself entitled to a re-nomination at the hands of the republican party. A majority of the delegation to the city convention, it seems, thought differently, and discarded me. I do not regard their action, however, as a popular expression, and therefore announce myself as an independent candidate for the office of street commissioner, and respectfully ask for your support and suffrage.

Two Assault and Battery Cases and One Tramp, the Day's Work.

The case of John Hageny, Sr., charged with assault and battery on the person of Samuel Cooley, also came up and was adjourned until Wednesday, March 19th, at nine o'clock.

Christopher Bankey was also before the court on a similar charge. The complainant was Hiram Shuman. The trouble came out of a little interchange of words, taunts, etc., at the supper table last night. The complainant alleged that the defendant, Bankey, had thrown a whiskey bottle at him, and that he would kill him (Shuman) before night. That he would not rest until he had every drop of blood in the complainant's body. The case is still in progress.

Christopher Bankey was also before the court on a similar charge. The complainant was Hiram Shuman. The trouble came out of a little interchange of words, taunts, etc., at the supper table last night. The complainant alleged that the defendant, Bankey, had thrown a whiskey bottle at him, and that he would kill him (Shuman) before night. That he would not rest until he had every drop of blood in the complainant's body. The case is still in progress.

A NEW BLOCK.

Will be built by Mr. Randall Williams at No. 57 West Milwaukee street.

Mr. Randall Williams has begun work on his store No. 57 West Milwaukee street, formerly occupied by Mr. Thomas Mahon as a restaurant. The old structure is being torn down and will be replaced by a substantial brick block that will be an ornament to that part of the city. Mr. Williams also expects to raise the store next door occupied by Mr. E. Hall, another story. This will be a great improvement on the old wooden fire trap that has occupied the site so long.

Somewhat a Surprise.

Considerable surprise has been expressed at the singular turn of affairs in Treasurer Murphy's case. The delegates nominated Mr. Murphy and he accepted the proud distinction immediately and on the spot. The republican also nominated him and he accepted the nomination, but here comes delegate Biss.

The Gazette manager, with the statement that he advised Mr. Murphy to accept the nomination. Surely this would seem to be a case where the manager failed to control the editor, and we can harmonize it in no other way. It is some consolation, however, to know that the discoverers of a democratic trick have subsided. Their backs would seem to show that the only bird doesn't always catch the worm.

Recorder.

The Recorder should cease its cunning, and be more serious and truthful in its political statements. Mr. Murphy never accepted the democratic nomination, neither did Mr. Biss advise him to accept it. Mr. Biss did, however, advise Mr. Murphy to thank the democratic convention, which he did. Proof of this is shown in the Recorder's own report of the convention.

The "democratic trick" is made more plain by the publication of the above, intended by the Recorder to place Mr. Murphy in a compromising political position. That portion of the democratic party who insisted in dragging Mr. Murphy before their convention have no use for him politically, and the sooner they succeed in accomplishing his political defeat, the sooner they expect to occupy his official position. Had the ring leaders been sincere friends of Mr. Murphy they would have followed the lead of Delegate Hugh M. Joyce, and there would have been no trick or faultfinding. Mr. Murphy was honest in what he did. The Gazette believes that he has a large number of democratic friends who are likewise honest in tendering him their support. Therefore, for decency's sake the Recorder should not throw mud at them.

BADGERS IN CHICAGO.

Some Pleasanties and Facts About the McKee Family in Chicago.

ELISHA WHITTELEY, JR. AND HIS FAMILY.

A Few Words About Chicago and the Great Columbia or the World's Fair of '93.

[Correspondence of the Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 10th, 1890.—While the details are not yet arranged and final congressional action has not been had, it is a foregone conclusion that Chicago will be the site of the American and World's Fair in 1893 or 1894. The latter date is the proper one to celebrate the 40th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus. True he made the landing in October, 1492, but he made the announcement to the civilized world in the spring of 1493, which, so far as Europe is concerned, is the real date of the discovery and to it the 400th anniversary.

But Chicago is prepared to accept either date, though the latter would give year more of needed time in which to prepare for the great and vast undertaking and to make more complete and perfect arrangements, and give more ample time to foreign exhibitors to get their exhibits here and properly arranged. The buildings, it is contemplated, are to be permanent, made of iron, and steel and stone; the iron and steel yet to be designed, cast and manufactured, mainly. This will require time, and a good deal of it. The material is yet essentially in the raw, not even mined or quarried, and much of it hundreds of miles away. The structures must be substantial, ornamental and even magnificent—they should and undoubtedly will be. Chicago must rival and aim to excel Paris, which cannot be done with any mushroom structures or preparations. Chicago and its neighbors would be chagrined and mortified if anything less should be the result. Let us have the best.

I make further mention of noteworthy families in Chicago from Rock county. First of The McKee Family in Chicago.

In my mentions of noteworthy families or individuals who have come to Chicago from Janesville or vicinity, I now mention, as a matter of historic interest to your readers, the McKee families as represented here—of the McKee Bros., so widely known in Wisconsin and here in Chicago; among, if not the foremost dry goods and general merchants in Wisconsin, and holding large property interests in this city. Chicago may justly be proud of its commanding commercial position, and among the many who have contributed to this grand result, the McKees are prominent. The younger sons now in Chicago would not be content with an inheritance but satisfied only when they can transmit one, the result of their own energy and efforts; they would be benefactors, not beneficiaries; would lead and not follow. They started out here evidently with an eye to business and a will bent upon excelling in it as did their fathers before them. They have evidenced aptness and skill in business, and have succeeded, having the adequate energy and ability to carry out the plans which their intelligence formulated. The fathers of this younger generation, to which I particularly allude, fully comprehended the almost inevitable possibilities of this western country when they came here from Ireland; while many conjectured they were deceived; while many stood by and hesitated, they went forward and proved their faith by their work, and a great high faith they had in the future of the west, which they adopted as their future home, and imbued their children with like ideas from which they have profited. I shall make brief mention of several of them now here. First of Henry McKee.

He was born in county Mayo, Ireland, in 1846. He came to this country with his parents Edward and Mary A. in 1847, who soon after located in Janesville, where Henry attended the public schools and later prepared for college under a private tutor and was graduated from Racine, Wis., college in 1867, and received the degree of A. M. in 1870; graduated from the law department of Michigan University in 1883, leaving behind in all these educational institutions a high record as an industrious, conscientious and thorough student. In 1874 he came to Chicago and formed a law partnership with Ex-United States Senator James R. Doolittle and the latter's son, the late James R. Doolittle, Jr., (whose untimely and widely lamented death occurred but a few months since, in the midst of a brilliant and promising career at this bar.) Henry's father died in 1875 and his uncle, Michael F., had preceded him in 1868 and left large property in Janesville and Chicago and Henry settled and is now managing the estates. In addition he has settled several large estates and has an experience in this connection which few men of his age have had, necessitating the giving of special attention to real estate, probate and chancery practice, in each of which he is regarded an expert without a superior in Chicago, and has won the implicit confidence of his clients, the bar and bench and the public. The firm is now doing an extensive business in its different lines of practice, employing half a dozen clerks and occupying an elegant suite of offices in the Royal Insurance building. This law firm is one of the most reliable and substantial in this city or in the west. The ability of Hon. James R. Doolittle is too well known in Wisconsin to require any comments of mine as to them. Henry McKee is a worthy and adequately competent partner to make this strong team of attorneys. After graduating from the law school in 1883, he made a trip to the old country with some of his relatives, and again in the autumn of 1871, on account of ill health, caused by close application to study, he took another trip abroad and his educated mind and native preception enabled him to profit by this experience. On his return he gave his attention to the rebuilding and developing of the McKee estates left in his charge. He lives in what was, before annexation Hyde Park, where he has been a trusted member and president of the board of education, and has held other positions of honor and trust to which he was elected in a republican stronghold, he being of democratic affiliations in politics. He is a member of the Keaukua and Iroquois clubs, and president of the Hyde Park democratic club, and is a prominent and highly esteemed citizen and man. In October, 1876, he married Adeline S. Parkhurst, a daughter of Hon. Wm. S. Parkhurst, a prominent lawyer of Roma, N. Y. They have three children, and a pleasant and happy home.

Edward E. McKee,

a younger brother of Henry, is also in Chicago, and doing a prosperous business. He was born at Racine in 1853. He was educated at Janesville, and at Racine College. In 1871 he engaged in the dry goods business in Janesville with his father. He remained there until 1886, when he came to Chicago and engaged in the real estate business with his cousin, Wm. D. McKee, and still has an interest in that firm of McKee & McKee, though he is more directly interested in other business. In real estate they are doing an extensive business, having made a subdivision of twenty acres in Eaglewood, land which they purchased, and of the McKee property; McKee's subdivision of Hyde Park—now Chicago—Park View, on Cottage Grove avenue, 47th street, on Jackson, 71st and 78th street, and I don't know but elsewhere. In 1888, over a year ago, he bought the interest of Mr. Milan in the Broadway & Milwaukee restaurant. The firm is now Broadway & McKee; Major Broadway is a popular veteran of the late war. The rooms have a seating capacity of 600, and daily feed more ladies and gentlemen than any other restaurant in the United States, with one exception; an average of 600 per day. Hungry visitors from Janesville will find the genial Edward E. McKee, at 126 Clark street, ready to receive and feed them. It is said to be the cheapest first class restaurant in the world. Edward E. McKee has the business tact and ability which he has inherited from the McKee family. In 1878 he married Miss Zella Brown, a niece of Judge R. S. Tuthill; they have five children.

The sister of the above, Esther, is the wife of Col. Robert S. Tuthill, one of the judges of the circuit court, and a prominent man here who, I presume, will acknowledge his indebtedness to her encouragement and aid in his prominent and noteworthy career. She is the mother of three children.

Richard McKee,

a brother, is studying dentistry in the Chicago dental college.

a cousin, is a dentist and in the same college. He will go to Germany next autumn to engage in the practice of his profession. He has before him a promising future, and already evidences skill and sagacity.

Wm. D. McKee,

the cousin and parent of Edward B., is a son of Michael McKee, and a brother of Thomas F. He is a

George.

In Janesville, and of Mrs. Smith, of San Francisco. He came to Chicago in 1888, and has been engaged in the real estate business since, as noted above, in connection with Edward E. McKee. He is a shrewd and competent young business man, who has the energy, industry and ability to succeed, and he has succeeded.

Mr. Harriet McKee,

the widow of the late Edward E. McKee, and mother of Henry, Edward, etc., lives in what was Hyde Park (before annexation) and is a kind and well preserved old lady, who enjoys life here, surrounded by her family and relatives.

Elisha Whittlesey, Jr.

Among the many families—or members of families—who found their way to Wisconsin, as to Racine, Wis., joining a number, from New England, at an early day the Whittlesey family is one of the most noteworthy. Its rich inheritance of good name and high character has been transmitted from generation to generation, and is conspicuous in the present generation, some of the members of which are now living in Chicago. Many of these have been influential and been prominent members of the learned professions; good citizens, honest men, faithful to themselves and lovers of their fellow-men. No feeble off-shoots have come from this stock. The pioneer of the family in the
